Foreword

For COMPLETE and accurate coverage of Senior's 1955-56 story look no further than this volume of whirligig. Its pages offer evidence of our staff's unfailing nosiness, our attempt to mix in masterly fashion details and implications, and to interpret lucidly Senior's color, doings and spirit. After all. how could we miss? Our x-ray-eyed know-all, "Whirlibird," did the probing. He was present at every encounter, in every huddle, meeting, or class. He helped us search out, sift, and analyze all those elements, obvious as our new gym or elusive as a wisp of cigarette smoke, that add up to Senior's charm, its dignity and its permanent influence. And all that he made us aware of we pass on to you in these pages.

In fall we stand in long, long lines

Though the calendars say Labor Day, to sophomores it's Registration Day at Senior High. With it comes almost every emotion from excited anticipation to fear and a homesickness for friendly, familiar old scenes left behind at junior high. But whether his major feeling is dread, satisfaction or indifference, each sophomore dusts his share of auditorium seats while he half hears Mr. Routh's directions and announcements. Then he follows a guide to his new home room, treading what seems to him miles of corridors, walkways and stairs to arrive at a spot he will have trouble finding again. Finally he goes on a tour, conducted by a student council member from spot to spot, building to building. So much bigness to realize, so many new things to stare at! What he sees in this first afternoon at Senior furnishes food for countless comparisons and discussions until Wednesday when he comes back to meet his teachers for the first time.

Tuesday offers upperclassmen a chance to renew old friendships, to rush to get registration cards and dash madly for the favorite teacher's line, to stand wearily in the auditorium to get checked out, to stand again endlessly for the most strategic lockers.

These locker lines stretch out from Mr. Johnson's window for days. By the time they shrink to reasonable proportions, Whirligig pictures are being made and there is a continuous stream of subjects to the new gym and back again. Even the weatherman cooperates, and two weeks see the job completed with a minimum of raindampened coiffures.

By now out-of-town games are drawing bus loads of Whirlie fans on Fridays. And all week long Senior is a bazaar, where varied goods are offered to or urged upon every one, on every side. Most of them yield funds destined to pay for class sections in this 1956 whirligig.

J VEN IF THE CLASSROOM'S BUSY PROGress furnishes us with Senior's "raison d'etre," no one believes that only light and trivial affairs transpire outside classroom walls. From earliest arrivals to the last departure each day drama is unfolding in every corner of this great expanse. What could be more vital than friendships made among the groups and couples that stand, wander or rush about Senior's halls? Or more important than exchanging notes on how to charm a boy friend or what happened last night? What sound sets off more meaningful activity than bells that release us from a classroom's confines?

Drama unfolds in senior's

exit, one thought uppermost-food. Many scurry to the parking lot, pack sardine-like in cars of every model, and with dust and speed scratch off to Sunset. There amid jingling cash registers and clattering dishes they devour their lunches and straggle back to school.

Meanwhile, other students stage their own stampede. Swarming to the cafeteria, they stand in endless lines for a lunch they gulp down in a racket of clanking milk bottles and presistent hum of voices.

The wanderers drifting back to the campus join those from the cafeteria, clustering in patches to chatter animatedly. A few exchange this noise and gaiety for the solitude of the auditorium, where they prepare with scholarly or desperate seriousness for the next class.

Suddenly the bell is again a signal. This time groups explode, each person going his own way, and leaving in the halls a lingering echo of the last word or sigh or iaugh.

School elections are an exercise in citizenship

 by democratic fairplay and a sense of sharp competition, are off to an exuberant start with the assembly at which candidates are presented. His gavel is hardly heard as the strained voice of the senior class president calls sixteen hundred ebullient students to order. One by one candidates are presented, some with quiet dignity, others with the loud and gaudy showmanship of a carnival barker.

Like a giant wave the spirit of campaigning soon engulfs the school. Miles of posters and banners line the walls, and enthusiastic campaign managers devise ingenious stunts. to ensnare those few last, elusive votes.

Then polling places are announced and eager voters scurry to register. At last election day arrives. There is a definite restlessness in the air as students who have registered file past black and white ballot boxes to cast their votes. For the next few hours the entire school remains tense, waiting the final returns. There is a hush of expectancy as Mr. Routh's voice begins to rumble over the p. a. system and slowly calls out the names of new school officers. We realize now, perhaps for the first time, that school elections play an important part in establishing and dignifying democracy in the hearts of young America.

Assemblies Make Tuesdays Special

- borts eversone salw his favorite form wi entertainment at our morning ascomblies this year.

THE CHRISTMAS PAGEANT, given by the seniors and the glee clubs, is an annual program of impressive beauty and appeal.

The inspiring and highly entertaining speech by Dr. Herschel Folger opened our series. The faculty "I've Got a Secret" program, whose merry pace was set by Bob Poole, delighted the student body. Torchlight tappings brought elements of suspense, surprise and gratification. On Social Standards Day a talk by Mr. Charles Phillips was a fitting prologue to home room panel discussions of our honor code.

No programs made us prouder of those who planned and performed than the juniors' Thanksgiving Pageant, based upon America's Freedoms, and the seniors' Christmas Pageant, rich in tradition and very moving music.

The wrestling and basketball coaches and their teams took us to the gym one morning for demonstrations of performances and officiating. Musical programs by a group of juniors, and by the various music organizations served to brighten many fall and spring Tuesdays. Awards Day and Class Day climaxed the year's assembly programs, all of which achieved the aim of chief planners, Mrs. Blackburn and Bob Herford, to enlighten as well as entertain.
"OPERATION HONOR CODE" is set off by Mr. Charles Phillips.

Volunteer groups gain experience, give service

THE STAGE CREW is loaded with potential energy, Members are Turner, Reacham, McGwier, Adviser Mr. L. W Anderson, Parker, Fogleman, and Cooke.

5TUDENTS WHO UNSELFISHLY VOLUNTEER for the work groups are vivid examples of school spirit and loyalty in action. Stage crew members become expert in the many intricate processes necessary for a successful production. Experience gained while producing shows makes crew members equally at home hanging from the bridge to change light bulbs, moving scenery, or supplying sound effects.

Among the busiest of Senior's people are the office assistants. These eighteen girls, who place service to the school above their own personal convenience, work in the offices during their study period. There they are deluged with names that have to be located in the files for Mrs. Blackburn, Mr. Anderson, or Mrs. Malone. Acting as receptionists, making telephone calls, delivering messages, and doing general stenographic chores are just routine matters to these efficient girls.

Another hard-working group is the book room crew. They are responsible for all of the sixteen thousand text books used in Senior's classes. They really work when teachers flood the book room with requisition blanks. After books are issued there is a lull, with only an occasional request for books to be put back on the shelves, or found, dusted off and counted out for use. Final job for the year is finding space once more on the shelves for the shabby volumes.

Beauty and fun take over

[5ORGEOUS GOWNS, spotless white jackets. perfect weather and an appreciative audience made May Day 1955 a fabulously lovely pageant. The lawn was never more splendid, the throne with its background of massed foliage never more appropriate for a queen to occupy. Nor did any may pole or amplifying system, any activities band or master of ceremonies ever seem better prepared for approaching responsibilities.

To the stately strains of "Pomp and Circumstance" the court attendants and their handsome escorts made their entrance.

AFTER THE PROGRAM Queen Julianna is escorted from the throne, followed bv honor attendant Josie Ward with Charlie Quinn.

Murmurs of approval and bursts of applause only increased as the radiant queen Julianna Clark appeared, escorted by Jimmy Jordan.

Then followed a hilarious program consisting of a series of scenes representing phases of the school curriculum. The "bunny hop" and "jitterbug" represented science: history was indicated by the "Charleston," French by the "Can-Can" and geometry by a square dance. Most polished and dramatic was that by Latin students. In authentic costumes famous Roman figures moved about, and two students fought valiantly as gladiators. The traditional may pole dance ended the program. Then proud papas, armed with whirring movie cameras, could close in. It was a day to be long remembered and well preserved on film.

Open houses really rock, proms are more formal

IANCING IS ONE OF THE MOST POPULAR activities around Senior High. You'll hardly find a Fred Astaire or Leslie Caron among us, but at every dance certain couples often performed within a circle of admiring spectators, who envied them their skill in a jitterbug, samba or rock and roll number.

To attend an open house after one of our home football or basketball games was an unforgettable experience. The girls' gym, bulging at its shabby seams, was really jumping, and school spirit was a partner in every dance. Whether we had won or lost made no difference. Parents and recreation department officials helper the youth council provide music and refreshments to make these informal dances more fun than any others.

Several formal dances were held by social clubs, usually two clubs combining to plan an original theme and decorations, and to arrange for a ballroom and orchestra at one of the hotels or country clubs.

This year the student council voted not to give the annual Midwinter Dance after exams, but they atoned for this disappointing decision by the lovely ball for the seniors during Commencement. Like that in 1955. this fabulous party was held in the gym. whose shining newness and gleaming floor seemed to match the gleam and glow of happy dancers.

LUNCHTIME DANCING brings a change of pace to girls' gym.

DURING INTERMISSION, dancers at the 1955 Senior Prom were entertained by sonss of the Cloverbuds, tatented student trio.

AS COMAENCEMENTS DO, 1955's graduation events brought their mixture of backward looks, regret, pride and gratitude and some forward looks - a few temporarily shoved into the background as too weighty for the present, others savored fully as approaching rewards for a long, uphill pull.

From Award's Day on, every unusual school activity centered around seniors. On that day outstanding achievements in every phase of school activity were recognized. Then followed another even more exciting and pleasant day - Class Day. It began with an entertaining program in which seniors had their last consolidated chance to poke fun at school and themselves. It included sentimental songs, melodrama, and various school leaders such as athletes and superlatives, who deserved this last place in the sun.

Purely social events were the senior luncheon at Starmount Country Club and the tea given by the faculty at the Alumni House, where seniors had a chance to compare loot and summer plans. Grand climax of their year, socially speaking, was the prom, held for the first time in the new gym and attended by over seven hundred seniors. guests and parents who beamed down from the balcony.

CLASS DAY CEREMONIES give students one last, nostalgic glimpse at senior athletes they have often cheered to victory.

More serious moments came at Baccalaureate and graduation services. The former was at West Market Methodist Church, the latter our first graduation in the stadium. Seniors were especially attentive to Dr Mark Depp, who helped them see more clearly the implications of "This Changing World" in their future.

English and foreign language courses prove

A HOST OF LITTLE GREMLINS cropping up all over Senior and bearing such unpleasant names as oral reports, term papers. punctuation rules, translation, and vocabulary, win only temporary victories. Their trouble-making intentions can always be foiled by our efforts to learn the rules, by going straight to the library for help and material in making that report, by a few extra minutes of concentration on that vocabulary list.

language is part of living

IN PANEL DISCUSSIONS English classes have an opportunity to exchange views and knowledge of current magazine articles.
in Julius Caesar's or Chaucer's or Washington Irving's day, or appearing before the class to make an oral report or serve on a panel, we are gradually growing more articulate in the use of our own language. And whether we are listening to records to improve our accent. translating a selection from French or Latin or Spanish, or into one of them. we are becoming more aware of other peoples through their language.

THROUGH CONVERSATION and classroom study, the rich variety and tradition of foreign lanquages become more familiar.

ANNUAL SCIENCE FAIR includes exhibits of fascinating variety.

STUDENTS ARE ABSORBED in the magic of a chemistry experiment.

In science and math "unknowns" become familiar

EVERY SOPHOMORE becomes as familiar with a biology lab as with his mother's kitchen, but not always with the same pleasant associations. Squeamishness, however, dies a painful death as he dissects earthworms and frogs. In learning all about the anatomy of lower animals he becomes far more aware of how his own body ticks and what keeps it healthy. If he finds science fascinating he enrolls the next year in chemistry. Here formulas and experiments gradually reveal to him the structure of the world around him. And if he enjoys solving complicated problems, he adds physics to his schedule as a senior.

Should science lose its interest for him as soon as his biology credit is safely recorded, he may find a challenge in algebra. As soon as he has mastered algebraic unknowns and equations, he tackles the mysteries of geometry with its majestic designs and " $3-\mathrm{D}$ " figures. Or armed with compass and log tables he may learn all about sines and tangents in trigonometry. Finally, to the best student, college algebra offers the supreme challenge in high school mathematics.

IN HOME ECONOMICS classes, girls study architect’s plans and diecuss the new building before actual construction becins.

Home ec, drafting and art spur creative ability

ome economics and family life try to make students aware of the value of a good home. To those already in good homes they give an appreciation of the privilege of living in such an atmosphere. In those less fortunate is created a desire to have such a home. Through films, discussions, laboratory projects, study and visiting speakers these courses help students meet the realities of every-day life and become equipped to deal with future problems.

FROM PLAN to finished creation, making a garment includes many hours of work, frequent cooperation.

Art students began the year by working in ink and water colors. They learned to appreciate balance and tone in drawings and to create lovely articles from many kinds of materials. They worked with leather and clay; they learned to make baskets of many sizes and shapes. Of all the crafts they became expert in, enameling copper cufflinks and earrings gave the most pleasure. They were also in demand when props and scenery had to be painted for the Thanksgiving and Christmas pageants.

Any teacher can recognize a drafting student by his neatness and care in preparing his written work, by his ability to print swiftly and expertly, and by his evident ability to think more logically than many other students.

DETAILED and assembly drawings may reguire expert advice.

A VARIETY of materials and creative ideas in art class combine to produce "masterpieces" of striking quality.

Yesterday's errors help solve today's problems

To JUNIORS the word "history" means American history; to sophomores and seniors it means world history or government. But whether it be government, or American or world history, it consists of many interesting and enlightening activities. From one Tuesday to the next there are constant reading, note-taking and reports.

Discussions often center around current affairs as well as past events and lessons. The American Observer is a familiar publication, devoured from cover to cover each week and providing for even the least informed a background for understanding some of today's major issues. In one class an assembly program was planned last year to make clear the way to act in case an atomic explosion should occur. In another class a student panel worked out and pre-

Bible, like history in its preoccupation with the past, is an elective open to students of any denomination. Bible class deals closely with individual daily living. The highlight of any month in Bible is the presentation of student projects, including models of buildings, autobiographies or diaries of Biblical characters, maps and dramatizations of incidents from the Bible. Such direct contact with the Bible's lessons helps students to gain a finer sense of values and deeper insight.

There's nothing new about automation at senior

ROM THE STACCATO TAP OF TYPEWRITERS to the steady hum of lathes, Senior High's daily music of industry includes a rich variety of sounds. Machine shop boys are busy learning to operate and appreciate the potentialities of many machines. In wood shop other boys are creating beautiful articles of furniture. In printing they are mastering the fundamentals of printing as they run the presses that turn out many of the printed forms used at Senior.

In commercial classes students master many modern machines an expert secretary must use. And in driving class they learn not only how to drive but also how to understand a car's intricate mechanism.

Finally exams are imminent. Teenagers squirm, chew pencils, maybe even nails. Exams take their toll in terms of emotional turmoil, group or solitary "cramming," anguished post mortems. It's the report card that reveals the true state of affairs now.

School board sees ahead

T.he Greensboro I'ublic School's Superintendent and School Board had many important decisions and responsibilities to handle this year, many of them to provide better facilities and relieve crowded conditions for Greensboro students. Locations are chosen and plans underway for a new junior high school on the Senior High campus and another senior high school in the northern section of town. Senior High was most closely affected this year by the construction of home economics and music buildings, one at each end of our main building. Obviously the superintendent and school board are looking to the future.

Principal meets challenge

5enior High's very able principal, Mr. A. P. Routh, found this one of his busiest years, with school problems more numerous and complex than ever. In the first place, Senior bulged at all seams, having this year attained the troublesome distinction of being the largest senior high school in the state. Mr. Routh met the problem of more teachers and students by adding partitions in study halls, utilizing every available inch of space. At midyear four teachers had to be replaced, and were. A bright spot for next year is two new buildings expected to be ready for use this fall.

PTA becomes parent-teacher-student association

PTA BOARD MEMBERS and school leaders are pictured after a luncheon in the home economics lab. First row: Mrs. T. C. Hoyle, Mrs Henry Sikes, Mrs. Webb Durham. Mrs. R. B. Dunn. Second row: Mre. R. B. Tailor, Mrs J. C. Jester, Mrs. I). H. Cashwell, Mrs. J. M. Garrison,

The Parent-Teacher Association changed its name this year to the Parents, Teachers and Students Association and rewrote its constitution. The theme of the programs was "Know your high school." They dealt with information about the teachers, subjects taught, extra-curricular activities and the physical plant of the school. Some of the most notable accomplishments of this active organization have been redecorating the teacher's lounge, giving financial support to the whirligig, and sponsoring open houses by supplying chaperones and money when needed.

Mrs. J. M. Dodson, Mrs. W. B. Farr, Mrs. Nellic D. BFackburn. Standing: Mr. Robert Fredrichson, Mr. Stankey Johnson, Maxine Callisher, Houston Groome, Mr. \orman Cooper, Mr. J. E. Garvin, Mr. T. F. Hudgins, Mr. A. P. Routh.

Largest Sophomore Class Finds Senior High Fun

5OPHOMORES ARRIVED ON THE SENIOR SCENE full of anticipation and eager to show their abilities and initiative. This year's class was the largest ever to enter Senior. With the election of their class officers they were well established and already an active factor in Senior's busy life.

There were meetings of all kinds to attend, and opportunities opened on many sides. Sophomores joined clubs, volunteered for various kinds of service, entered many school activities. Nothing kept them busier than the sales of pencils and school pins to help raise money for their whirligig pages.

Sophomores were in the front rows with their spirited support at ball games, while their classmates played on the teams. Sophomores were a vital part of many assembly programs, especially as members of the glee clubs and other musical organizations. Some were on the whirligig staff: others took part in speech and dramatic productions. Some members of this class even went to St. Louis with the orchestra when it played for a national meeting. Wherever an activity was open to them there could be found the ones who found fun and satisfaction in responsibilities outside the realm of classroom business.

With projects and pageant juniors prove ability

T.o the Class of '57 their junior year will always hold fond memories-memories of their class officers and adviser Miss Mary Ellen Blackmon, who kept junior affairs going well; memories of selling stationery. fruitcake, and Christmas wrappings to pay for their whirligig pages; memories of the hard work and cooperation necessary to write, direct and produce the Thanksgiving Pageant about America's great freedoms; memories of the pride they all felt as class members won school, state and national honors; memories of completed jobs, a good record, permanent friendships.

TO EVERY JUNIOR a new class ring brings pride and pleasure.

Juniors furnish marshals

The Junior marshals, in their lovely white dresses and handsome dark suits, were a familiar part of the school scene. These responsible Juniors, who were elected by their classmates, ushered with gracious manner and helpful directions at all special school functions, including graduation and at many civic programs held in our auditorium.

MARSHALS ADVISER Miss Maunida Wales helps to make sure that, whatever the occasion, Chief Marshal Douy Albright and other marshals are presentable and efficient.

MARSHALS - First roz': Rose, Merriman. Cook, Lennon, Hutton, Tuttle, Ogburn. Second roz: Hardy, Dunlop, Williamson, Martin, Garvin, Antrim, Sparling. Third row:

"ARM IN ARM" seems to be the motto for the Senior class officers: Treasurer Robert Hewett, Secretary Shilley

Seniors are proud of pageant, honors, progress

[J ASTING A REFLECTIVE GLANCE over the last three years, seniors are reminded of many things. They remember their mingled envy and pride as classmates were chosen members and leaders of Torchlight. choir, student council, publications, and athletic events. As seniors they shared responsibilities that drew them close. To pay for whirligig pages they sold blue and white ribbons. They produced a beautiful Christmas pageant. Almost cn masse they descended on Washington for four hectic, happy days. They groaned together over the expense and rush of graduation, shared the nostalgia, the pride, and the relief.

SENIOR GIRLS are angels for duration of Christmas Pageant.

those with merely an interest and an ambition for richer school experiences - activities of many kinds offered a cordial invitation. Over four hundred students practiced every day for the quality of near-perfection evident when our bands, orchestra, choir or glee clubs performed. Dozens more poured as much talent and energy into public speaking and dramatics, or into writing for Migh Life or whirligig.

For still others there were the honor and the feeling of pride that came from serving their school as elected officers or as volunteer bus drivers, stage crew, book room or office assistants. To every student who found the time, interest and energy required, activities offered endless rewards and opportunities.

Members of the Student Council served Senior High in many ways this year. As soon as the sophomore officers were installed on the Council, plans for the Homecoming game had to be made.

State Student Council

A big honor came to the Council and Senior High when Junior Class President Bill O'Brien was elected President of the N. C. Student Council Congress when it met at Rocky Mount in October.

The Council conducted an assembly and homeroom panel discussions on the honor code and its importance. Other fall services were the collection of a fund to give janitors and maids a Thanksgiving dinner and sponsoring a Christmas bulletin board contest.

Some Council members ushered at football games, and during basketball season they sold special booster tickets and sponsored an open house after one of the games.

In the spring the Council planned the spring elections and the Prom. Their year was a full and useful one.

Not all of their planning and energy was spent on official business, however; an informal Christmas party at the home of Bose Ravenel was followed by a plush formal card dance in the spring.

CHECKING OVER PICTURES for the next issue of High Life are Photographer Dan McConnell and Cartoonist Diana Harmon.

HEy, Buddy-buddy! With a cloud of wet ink and a hearty "Hi-Ho High Life," the newspaper staff was off for another year's race to produce a winner! In the lead was "Shloymey the Shlophomore," mascot for the herd. True, their track was usually littered with proofs and discarded copy, and their speed was often slowed by some member of the first-year bunch. But Shloymey forged ahead and set the pace. Next came the masterful Journstein, latest threat to Frankenstein, whose ominous portrait on the wall induced budding journalists to creativity.

Close behind him panted Jim Martin, an editor to the teeth - a horse laugh for all and encouraging words for his teammates. Edging around with packs of Shloymey material was Diane Schwartz. Neck and neck with her was Donner Dean Oliver, dragging head sheets stretching from here to eternity. That one was a go-getter!

Not far behind her was Dick Dictionary Editorial Robinson in horse. And what's this? An escaped microphone? It was "Jer Jottings" Farber in his Jay-Ray Bermudas. bringing in a late story, for a change-bless his little pointed ears! Opposite him was Mary Jane Seawell, really sweatin' out "Whirlie Wimmin."

- High Life races ahead

Coming in to stretch the copy, and led by Mary Wheeler, was a band of copy readers and reporters - Jerry Mann, Judy Shallant, and Paula Tuttle. Bringing up the ads with bags of unpaid bills were Mary Lou Hutton and Ginger Bass. And then there was Betty Adams, puffing away at original assignments. Feature that now! She was right with Dan McConnell, Claiborne Cordle, and Diane Harmon, the artistic end of the aggregation. And there on the eighth deck was Miss Peggy Ann Joyner and Mr. A. P. Routh, two of the finest horse trainers anywhere around. They kept the racers in trim and well looked-after.

And there you have the stupendous 195556 High Life racers. We give this team a blue ribbon and hearty congratulations on a race well run!

Whirligig tries to please

WHETHER IT WAS AN UNEXPECTED but welcome visit from Mr. Fleming or Mr. Brightman, a mislaid caption, an unidentified picture, an everlasting search for that elusive right word, a recent scoop by Whirlibird, or a mere slip of the tongue or typewriter, any one of these could be found in that untidy, intriguing little whirligig room behind 103 .

Sue and Barry wore out the Thesaurus in their search for the perfect phrase. Mr. Routh dropped in to give the latest information on "our financial picture."

Every staff member, if perhaps in varying degrees, was working for the same reward - seeing the completed whirligig finally stowed away in Mr. Fleming's bulging briefcase and knowing that in a few months thec miracle of reality would arrive, a brown and gold piece of ourselves materialized.

Booklovers gather here

From card catalogue to movie projector, from oldest edition to latest periodical. the library's facilities were in constant use. This kept two librarians and a large staff of assistants busy from 8:00 till 4:30 every day. They had fun at a Christmas party, wrote articles about the library for High Life, arranged many attractive book displays. Their artistic bulle-

Art club pools talent

Two years ago a club was formed at Senior as an exciting source of interest for the school's budding young artists. Every other week, the public library played host to the twenty members. Their adviser Mr. Carl Coker helped them plan a series of programs to present at hospitals and other public institutions. The attractive book marks that appeared around the school were the evidence of their first fund-raising campaign. An undertaking that required the co-operation and effort of all members was the beautifully decorated float in the Christmas parade.

F.T. A. Club size suggests no shortage here

F.T.A. CLUB MEMBER Josie Gregory, spends one period daily helping teachers at Brooks School, finds the children enthralling

The Ben L. Smith F.T.A. Club grew from 15 members 5 years ago to the encouraging proportions of 175 members this year. In spite of its unwieldy size they had several enjoyable meetings. At one they saw a movie illustrating trials and rewards of teaching. At another, dynamic and popular Mrs. Mary F. Hazelman talked about teaching and convinced even the skeptics that teachers and teaching can be full of fun.

Many got close to actual teaching by going during their study periods to help teachers at Brooks School. We all enjoyed their spring assembly program, at which UNC coach Mr. Jim Tatum spoke. Seated on the Farly in the fall, the dramatics class selected a full length play, the comedy "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay." Through the practice periods hearts were just that way. Then came the night for the big performance. They were still young, but stage fright made the young actors far from gay. Three one-act contest plays were next on the busy program. Then followed the memorable trip to Chapel Hill that demanded the best efforts of everyone. And all were proud and happy when ratings for the plays were announced.

When not performing for the public, the Playmasters were concentrating on skits, creative dramatics. and building of two complete scenes -- interior and exterior.
fattest roles in "Our Hearts

VESTAL VIRGINS in 19.5 May Day offered an authentic touch.

The Junior Classical League started their year with the impressive installation of new members. At Christmas the group had another inspirational program at which the students sang Christmas carols and read the Christmas story in Latin.

One highlight of the year came at the February meeting, when Dr. Claud Bowen showed slides and spoke of his visit to the Holy Land, Athens and Rome. In the spring the J.C.L. members attended the State Convention in Chapel Hill, where several boys took part in a gladiatorial combat with boys from Salisbury.

Spanish club has programs with authentic flavor

ᄃolumbus Day was the very appropriate date of La Alianza Espanola's first meeting this year. New members were initiated at this meeting and like Columbus discovered a new realm of interest and activities centered around all things Spanish. In November a program, whose theme was music and dances of Spanish-speaking countries, was held at the home of one of the members. A Guatemalan girl who was a guest of the club demonstrated dance steps of her country. The Christmas program was given for the patients at the polio hospital. Nembers of the club presented the traditional celebra-

Tests and awards keep bus drivers on their toes

Wheels that help to keep Senior moving belong to the sixteen buses driven by the Wheel Club. The members of this organization discuss their business and problems in their own homeroom or at their regular monthly dinner meetings. Fire extinguishers and first aid kits for the buses resulted from these meetings and funds donated by the student passengers. To keep the bus drivers on their toes they took regular examinations and attended a countywide clinic. Regularly an outstanding driver received a "driver-of-the-month" award.

MINUTES BEFORE THE BELL RINGS ending a period, students who happen to be gazing wistfully out into the hall observe groups of apparently very young men almost bounding out of classrooms up and down the halls.

These young men are the traffic squad. This very capable group have the tough assignment of keeping seventeen hundred students who populate Senior High headed in the right doors and up the right stairs. This they perform with experience and coolness of hardened veterans.

Y.C. holds open houses

The Youth Council is sponsored by the Greensboro Recreation Department and the Senior High ITA. This year the council provided an open house after each home game on Friday night. All of these open houses crowded the girls' gym, but happily so. They were just as crowded with fun as the gym was with celebrating Whirlie fans Though the Youth Council did not have a home to work in this year, they have been looking over and studying the blueprints: for a new recreation building.

Junior Red Cross urges year-round school safety

The Junior Red Cross stands ready to aid in time of need or disaster. Its members have pledged themselves to service of others, finding courses in first aid and water safety a pleasant way of working toward this motto. Their big project during the year was a membership drive for the American Junior

Red Cross. This drive received an enthusiastic response from Senior's students, who seemed to realize the importance of the organization - especially on our own hurri-cane-stricken coast. Among their many other services were table favors and parties for old people and bed-ridden shut-ins.

FROM THE OPENING DAY the choir was busy with many programs. First was the annual half-time show, with the band and glee clubs, singing music from "Oklahoma." Then came the choir and orchestra program, a satire on a TV variety show. Ten acts were planned, the script written by David Bescherer, and Leon Boggs chosen as master of ceremonies.

Christmas holidays demanded more programs, especially the Senior pageant. Later there were appearances at Greensboro College, before civic clubs, and at the Jefferson Standard banquet. There was one TV appearance, but the choir sang its best for state contest and the North Carolina Festival. ## Senior's orchestra plays

T.HE ORCHESTRA gave to all members opportunity for intensive training and experience in music; to individuals it gave additional opportunities. Some joined ensem-

Thirty-four members were chosen to play in the All-State Orchestra at E.C.C. late in January. The highest honor and most rewarding experience for the entire orchestra was the concert it gave at the invitation of National Music Educators when they met at St. Louis in April. Also at this meeting Laura Adams and John Gardiner were asked to play in the All-National Orchestra.

Locally the orchestra was heard with the choir in a December show, and alone in a spring assembly. As a finale the juniors played for the Senior Tea during Commencement.

AMERICAN BANDMASTERS PRESIDENT James C. Harper of Lenoir, N. C.. Dr. Edwin Franko Goldman of New York City, and GHS director Herbert Hazelman enjoy the intermission at the band's November concert honoring the eminent guest.

DR. (BOLIMAAN'S CHARM was as memorable as his abilits to compose and conduct band music.

5 INCE OUR Whirlibird has a nose for lively and interesting activity, it's no wonder that he flitted frequently around the vicinity of Senior High's progressive bands. This year the North Carolina Bandmasters' Association was honored when one of its members, Mr. James C. Harper of Lenoir, was elected President of American Bandmasters' Association. In celebration, Senior High's Concert Band gave a dinner and concert honoring the national president and a visiting composer-conductor, Dr. Edwin Franko Goldman from New York. The dinner was held at Bliss' on the evening preceding the concert. Several students spoke and the honorees added witty and inspirational remarks.

On the evening of the concert Mr. Hazelman directed the first half of the program: Dr. Goldman then took his place to direct the band in several famous Goldman marches. He interpolated many humorous and interesting bits of information between these musical numbers. To end the concert. Mr. Harper directed the traditional "Stars and Stripes Forever" March. 'This brought the audience to their feet in appreciation and tribute.

Under the direction of Mr. Still and Mr. Toenes, the activities band worked toward proficiency in sight-reading and intonation to earn membership in the concert band. Besides aiding the concert band in many performances, the activities band furnished background music for May Day ceremonies.

URMURS OF GRANDSTAND QUARTERbacks on fourth and four . . . traditional rivalries with High Point and Reynolds . . . a dazzling fast dribble and then the rip of the cords . . . the sharp crack and clean arc as a ball soars into the heavens . . . long, trying hours of wearisome practice . . . the straining throats in closing minutes of play ... a backhand smash for set-point . . . that sudden surge of power with only 10 meters to go . . . all of this imparts meaning and animation to our sports picture.

THEY OFTEX PLAY the hardest game who only stand and wait.

The opening scene is late August with football hopefuls turning out for practice; the cue, a blaring band and jumping cheerleaders, brings on the widely checring fans. This is the beginning of a sports pageant whose scenes take us to our expansive and gleaming new gym for fast, exciting basketball and wrestling; to the field on sunny afternoons for baseball's strategy and in-

1955 Whirlies finish good season in third place

Fighting uphill all the way, our Whirlies finished with a 4-4-2 season record and third place in conference play. Top scorers were Lou Glascock, Don Rothrock, and Larry Rogers, who accounted for 42,18 and 18 points respectively. The same lincup led in rushing, passing, and pass-receiving yardage.

RALEIGH (0-0): A scoreless tie in the opening game left the Whirlies undefeated in thirteen games. Several scoring chances were lost, three within the 25 -yard line. The game encled soon after Rogers moved the ball to Raleigh's 8 -yard line.

DURHAM (0-14): While the Whirlie defense repulsed threats on the $1,5,6$, and 7 -yard lines, the offense ran against a stout Durham line, had a scoreless tie at halftime. Trailing 0-7, the Whirlies made their deepest penetration, to the Bulldogs' 20. only to lose the ball. The game ended 0-14.

CHARLOTTE CENTRAL (19-14): Offensive drive and aerial strength were evident as the Whirlies came back from 0-7 and 6-14 deficits to win. Passes to Rogers and Glascock accounted for twelve points and Glascock scampered over for the final score.

GASTONIA (0-14): A driving rain and powerful Green Wave team dominated the evening, as the visitors ran over us to win 0-14. A first-quarter drive to Gastonia's 24 was the water-logged Whirlies' best effort.

ASHEVILLE (24-27): A TD by Gill and two by Rogers gave the Whirlies 6-0, 12-7. and 18-14 leads in an offensive seesaw battle. On an end run DeBruhl found paydirt, and hopes were flaming as we led 24-14; but two fumbles spelt two Maroon TD's and a 24-27 loss.

WINSTON-SALEM (12-7): Though dominating first-half play, the Whirlies scored on a yard plunge by DeBruhl. A fourth quarter TD by Rogers overcame a Demon 6-7 lead and gave us a 12-7 advantage, but only after overcoming a last desperate bid.

REIDSVILLE (13-13): A scoreless first half was the result of an excess of penalties and fumbles by both teams. A fourth quarter TD, on a Rothrock plunge, tied it at 7-7 and a TD pass snagged by Glascock in the last minute knotted the score at 13-13.

ON AN END RUN Lou Glascock, with a key block by Bert Wilder, scores one of three touchdowns against the High Point Team.

SALISBURY (6-13):
An unpredicted Salisbury T-formation befuddled our Whirlies for the first half and a 0-13 lead; but domination of second-half play allowed Sheppard to score Greensboro's only 6 points. Great defensive play and a drive to Salisbury's 30 highlighted the Whirlie finish.

WITH ABLE ASSISTANCE Larry
Rogers pulls the same tricky end run (above) against High Point and (center) against Reidsville.

HIGH POINT (19-0) :

In spite of costly penalties, Greensboro was still victorious over our rival, 19-0. First, second, and last quarter TD's were made possible by Glascock, over guard and around end, and by Rothrock, whose option plays worked to perfection.

THE ASHEVILLE TEAM has trouble with Glascock, shown here faking to pull an opponent out of position.

BURLINGTON (13-12):
Trailing the underdog Bulldogs, our determined Whirlies scored on the second-half kickoff, when Neese romped 88-yards. McNairy then converted for the eventual deciding point. Glascock, a senior, scored our season's last TD for a 13-12 victory.

P _OST-SEASON activity was highlighted by GHS participation in the Carolinas' postThanksgiving Shrine Bowl game at Charlotte. Our own Coach Jamieson was head coach of a North Carolina aggregation that won 19-13. Buddy DeBruhl went along as manager; two other Whirlies, halfback Lou Glascock and quarterback Don Rothrock helped in the victory. A Glascock interception of a S. C. aerial set up a touchdown and several plays later Glascock scored around his own right end.

'56 Whirlie basketball team comes out low in wins

THE 1955-56 SEASON ended with the Whirlies watching the state AAA tournament from the sidelines in their own gym; but no one could say that the season had been without plenty of victories and thrills. For from their first game this team had the loyalty and support of the student body, and not once did the players quit trying to justify this loyalty.

The team began the season with several promising veterans and high hopes of a good season; but the loss of most of these seasoned players right after Christmas threw the second-string boys right into the spotlight and the hot spot. Immediately the student body rallied to add morale building where it would help most. Two busloads of students followed the new team to Charlotte to yell their hearts out and cheer the players to upset a bigger, more seasoned team there.

Though lack of experience was a handicap, the team played their very best in every game, losing many of their most crucial games by the heartbreaking margin of only one or two points. Forwards Carruthers, Dyson and Hitchcock, center Albright, and Guards Johnson and Orr carried the playing load all season. Albright was top rebounder, followed closely by Carruthers and then Dyson. Carruthers led the scoring with 316 points: Albright was second with 215.

In February three consecutive victories put the Whirlies in a position to challenge Burlington for second place in conference standings. One of these was a thriller against Gastonia that went into three overtime periods and left spectators limp. But two losses sank the Whirlies to a fourthplace tie. which had to be played off. In a close, exciting contest, won by Asheville in only the last seconds, the Whirlies lost their hopes of appearing in the state tournament.

DOUG ALBRIGHT moves in time to break up an Asheboro scoring threat.

The state AAA tourney was played in the Senior High gym this year for the first time. And even without the local team to help draw fans, it was a definite success.

1955 Swimming team won many individual honors

Tony Schiffman's diligent work, Bob Sawyer's fiery determination, and the consistent speed of the 200-yard free style team gave GHS one of its most successful swimming teams in recent years. Their outstanding feat was winning the three biggest events in this area: the Southern Interscholastic Invitational in Atlanta and the Southeastern and State Invitational meets. Though the Whirlie tankmen lost three other meets during the season, many individual honors were won.

As we go to press the 1956 swimmers appear to hold even more promise. They IURING THE 1954-55 SEASON Coach Glenn's mat-men were practically all new and inexperienced. Consequently they lost nine matches, won only one, came in third in the state tournament.

This year offered a different picture. A bumper crop of well-qualified sophomores turned out, and at least a score of veterans returned, nine of whom were lettermen. As for the 1955-56 season, though only half over at press time, it supported the most optimistic predictions. The wrestlers had already won four and tied one of all matches entered before February 1.

0VERPOWERING SERVES and practice were the winning combination for last year's GHS netmen. Twice defeating each of their opponents - Burlington, Reynolds, Salisbury. High Point, and Danville - the tennis team ended their second consecutive season without a defeat in match play.

The boys responsible for this outstanding record are Sam and Eugene LeBauer. Tom McIver and Doug Orr. McIver-Orr was our top doubles-team, and the LeBauer twins were the Whirlies' outstanding singles players. Sam LeBauer was defeated in the semifinals of the state matches, and the doublesteam of McIver-Orr reached the finals.

ᄃOMMITTING A RACER'S "DON'T," we glance over our shoulders, but at last year's highlights. Our trackless cinder-men were victorious in two dual meets with High Point and two triangular meets, and "showed" in a Western AAA Conference meet. They concluded a successful season by securing a fourth place berth in the state meet. The Whirlies' "whirlwinds" were Dave Scurlock and Lou Glascock, the former setting a state record for the 880 and the latter for the high and low hurdles. When asked to comment, Coach Glenn said, "Best since '34, but 1956 prospects look even better."

Instrumental in the matches were Ed Sweetman, Gene Smith, Ed Morrissett, R. B. Arthur, Bradley Anderson and Jack Reeves.

Perhaps overshadowing their season record was the success of Jamieson's golfers in the State Tournament. R. B. Arthur had a 150 , Ed Morrissett a 151, Gene Smith a 152, and Ed Sweetman, who finished fourth in individual play, a 144. The composite score for the team was 597, which was good for first place and a state record by ten strokes.

COntender Then Spoiler" is the best description of the GHS 1955 baseball team. The season opened with four consecutive wins, two being in conference play, and a chance at first place. However, after falling out of the running, with losses to Charlotte, Reynolds, and Salisbury, the Whirlies began to play their role as trouble-maker. This was done by defeating Reynolds and throwing a scare into Salisbury. Though finishing strong, the Whirlies only placed fourth because of their inability to defeat the top three teams. Against Salisbury, Gastonia, and Reynolds their record was two wins. four losses.

The bright spot in Coach Smith's team was the pitching, which was responsible for the Whirlies' 7-5 conference record and 9-7 record for the season. Wilson Carruthers and Banks Ritchie, backbone of the pitching staff, with 5-3 and 4-1 records respectively, were relieved by Larry Gill and Bob Miller. These four hurlers are credited with three victories and only one defeat against our rivals in High Point and Winston-Salem. The outstanding flaw in our team was the hitting, as only two batters had an average above .300. Paul Sams had a . 357 average; Tommy Nance, the team captain, . 306 ; and Dick Hall, who came close, .295. Two homers were struck during the season-one by C. E. Bolling and a grand slam by Owen Johnson.

As an experienced nucleus is present, the 1956 team's outlook appears to be very good. This nucleus consists of lettermen Bill Mock, Owen Johnson, Paul Sams, Dick Hall, and Wilson Carruthers. Returning players who are striving for a letter are Jay Brame, Larry Gill, Harold Wrenn and Carl Shelton. The fact that one-half of the squad is returning prompted Coach Smith to observe at press time, "We can go far in 1956 if we get good hitting."

BANKS RITCHIE, left, looks down for a signal on the 3-2 count, and Dave Thompson awaits his turn to plague a pitcher.

Boys' physical education features team play and intramurals

GETTING AND
KEEPING a basketball calls for skill and strategy.

ALMOS'T AS WELL ROUNDED as Senior's competitive sports activities is our physical education and intramural program. It provides an opportunity for those who may not have ability or time to take active part in regular school-sponsored sports to participate in athletic activity.

Supervised by the coaches and using

Senior's facilities, the boys play during class, engage in intramural sports after school. A few even take advantage of both chances to play. Teams which the boys are allowed to form compete for recognition and individual medals. Winners are chosen by elimination.

Coach Earey, director of intramurals, hopes to expand the competition. Now, activity is restricted to tag football, wrestling, basketball, softball and individual competition in table tennis.

THOUGH IT'S A FAST and furious game, with bone bruising tactics, soccer fails to daunt these energetic athletes.

A WRESTLING GROUP takes time out while they watch a lighthearted demonstration of technique of two of their members.

POPULAR VOLLESBALL provides not only plenty of fresh air but fun and competition too.

"Gabe's Girls" like action, variety, competition

THE PHYSICAL EDUCATION PROGRAM for girls was full of interesting activities this year. It began in September with softball, and right away girls were keeping the dust stirred up on the field behind the vocational building at almost every period during the day. Then from 3:30 to $4: 30$ the new recruits joined the varsity players in practice games and detailed work on fundamentals.

Ever popular volleyball was another effective outlet for stored energy. At the height of the volleyball season, an invitational play day was held by the Girls' Athletic Council, with Senior High girls acting as referees and hostesses to the teams that came from Curry and the five local junior high schools. This first annual play day at Senior was a marked success.

As autumn turned to winter, the Whirliettes turned their interest to basketball. Practice consisted mainly of drills and frequent cries from "Gabe" such as "Watch those passes!" The girls had a good season and attributed their victories to team spirit and determination. One of their fondest memories is of the 68 points they made in one game, setting a new scoring record for Senior High girls. They also like to remember beating High Point 47-40 on a chilly January afternoon.

BASKETBALL develops speed and coordination, as well as grace and poise.

5enior High's girl swimiters, coached by Mr. Jamieson and including some junior high girls too, have an impressive record. In 1955 they won almost every meet they entered. Wins included the Georgia Junior AAU meet in Atlanta and the Carolina Junior meet in High Point. At Charlotte last summer they carried away 22 first places in the Junior Olympics. Penny Taliaferro set a national record for backstroke in her age group. The 1956 season started with a victory in the Southeastern High School championships at Emory University.

Their spirit is catching

Neither sweltering heat and dust of early fall pep rallies nor teeth-chattering cold of the last football game could dim the cheerleaders' enthusiasm. And though their clothes were sodden the night we played in a downpour, they cheered right on, their spirit undampered.

Pat's booming voice leading them, long practices Gabe called them to on the front lawn, exciting trips to out-of-town games, the honor of cheering at the Shrine Bowl game, decorating the goal posts, the thrill of ringing the victory bells - all these are reward enough for time and energy poured out so lavishly to boost student morale

Alpha Omega Hi-Y works to boost school spirit

Under the guidance of Manley I Dodson. Alpha Omega members spent another year in service to the school and community and in fun and fellowship with one another. They assumed the role of a self-supporting organization during the past year with sales of Kleenex and of "Whirlie" bookcovers which were designed to bolster school and team spirit.

But all was not work with the Omegas. as they participated in several Hi- Y tournaments and had many good times at their socials and during their meetings. These

WITH SERVICE uppermost in their minds, Les Amis Hi-Y club has completed another year of projects, socials, and fellowship. With the expert counsel of their adviser, the Rev. Joe Flora, many goals were attained, many problems solved. The thirty members pitched in industriously on the club projects: the sale of soap and then of Christmas trees. Thus their pledge to World Service was accomplished.

Les Amis gained much in Christian fellowship and leadership from their Monday evening meetings and their socials. Participation in the Hi-Y tournaments helped to knit them into a more compact, closer-working group.

The boys worked together and co-operated well, not only on their projects, but on their socials and in their weekly meetings.  His Reminds me of Fairy Stone," said Mary Ann as she deftly manipulated spaghetti at the progressive dinner in honor of Carolyn. Reminiscences of that wonderful week in Virginia last summer came from all sides. "But on our trip to the beach next summer we'll have even more fun." interrupted Carol. And they were off in plans for next summer.

The S.D.C. girls found birthday parties gala occasions, and slumber parties great fun, especially when they were at Gayle's. Even boosting a depleted treasury wasn't SIGNETS OFFICERS, befriending a poor wanderer, are Adviser Mrs. J. W. Wheeler, President Mary Wheeler, Vice-President Ann Poole, Secretary-Treasurer Dottie Sherrill, Corresponding Secretary Carolina Davis.

S.L.C. Club

AZING INTO THE CLUB'S CRYSTAL BALL. one can see the past rather than the future. To start the year with good fortune, doughnuts were sold and a turkey raffle was held at Thanksgiving. Nights to remember were the hayride and the Plantation party, with breakfast afterward at Marie's. ## W.S.T. Club

The chattering W.S.T.'s reunited at Patsy's. Lou's "shut-up" and Sue's "shellout" pleas and Betty's jokes were an indispensable part of each meeting. As the months slipped by there was a never-to-beforgotten dance "Among the Autumn Leaves." An old W.S.T. girl became the new adviser, W.S.T.'s begged money for TB and sold "Peanuts for Polio." A square dance, a Plantation party with supper first at Sylvia's dad's place, the annual beach trip, and other exciting incidents took place in the W.S.T. year. Their last year as a W.S.T. gave twelve senior girls a lot of happy memories, and made the other members anticipate next year's fun.

Maynard, Franklin. Hitchcock.

5CREECHING BRAKES, spinning tires, slamming doors, and wild cries always revealed the arrival of the $G-30$ members on the scene. Every Wednesday night at $7: 30$ this performance occurred as seven sophomores, eleven juniors, and twelve seniors piled in for another meeting. There was often more emphasis on horseplay than on business at club meetings. For instance, while orderly business was going on inside at one meeting, a few of the more mischievous ones picked up Woody Fordham's foreign "model" and parked it between two trees.

Led by President John Horney, the "Greensboro-30" made hall posters for the football games and blue and white shakers for the basketball games in an attempt to boost school spirit.

Syitt Club

The Syitt boys had a busy year. Their projects included cleaning up the Senior High parking lot and giving clothes to a needy family. Probably the most exciting event for them was the gift of a cabin by David and Buddy's grandmother. The boys spent most of their spare time in work clothes, wielding paint brushes and brooms. They dragged in furniture from a thirtymile radius and hung pictures. "Brother Bill" Taylor served this year as big brother, chaperone and helper in planning the many Syitt parties.

Among Syitt stories of this year is one Toomes tells about a fox hunter that woke him up one morning. David, Red Ryder and

Hanna tell about the day after the snow when mud on "Syitt Avenue" succeeded in slowing down Syitt traffic and how an old snow plow "pulled them through."

SYITT OFFICERS: Secretary-Treasurer Paul Robinson, Vice-President Mike Haley, President Charlie Quinn, Ser-geant-at-Arms John Atwater, and Chaplain Philip Causey

OPPORTUNITIES

in the industrial world today are unlimited. Automation, atomic energy, a rapidly increasing population - all point to a period of unprecedented growth in the industrial life of the nation.

Like many others, the textile industry is just scratching the surface of its own latter-day revolution, which began less than a quarter century ago with the introduction of man-made fibers.

Burlington Industries pioneered in production of fabrics from man-made fibers, and has today grown to be the world's largest and foremost textile concern.

For young men and women thinking in terms of a career, the textile industry today offers opportunity "without bounds" in manufacturing, merchandising, research, development and design, and many other related fields.

As we go to press . . .

Finally, in the wee small hours of a cold February morning, this seventh edition of whirligig is "put to bed." While we look back over the past five short months of toil, we feel pride, for we know ours has been a worthwhile objective. The pleasure of such a large task lies in the fact that we can now forget our many problems and remember the humorous or rewarding experiences and the comrades.

And as we look back, we can never forget those who gave their willing and pleasant service in producing this 1956 whirligig.

First of all, we sincerely thank Miss Virginia Powell, our indispensable adviser, who has given freely of her time and service. And to Mr. Routh, who was never too busy to give us sound advice, we would like to give thanks.

Many of our most appreciative thoughts are for Mr. Gordon Brightman of Jahn and Ollier Engraving Company, who inspired and helped us in many ways, and to Mr. John Hancock, also of Jahn and Ollier, whose gracious advice often set us straight.

Our sincere gratitude goes to Mr. Earl Powell and to Mr. Frank Fleming, the Lassiter Corp. representative, who bear with us and see us through. Mr. Carol Martin and Mr. Malcolm Miller of Martin's Studio are responsible for the superior candid and group pictures on which so much of the popularity and success of our book depends. To Mr. Kenneth Plott of Belk's Studio, whose portraits appear in our class section, we give thanks.

Our sincere thanks to Mr. Dale Kearns, Claiborne Cordle, and Dan McConnell, whose pictures have sometimes served as life savers, and to the High Life and Greensboro News-Record, for all the essential information we have received from them. Then there are Mr. Stanley Johnson, Mrs. Margaret Malone, Miss Rowena Montague, and Miss Ida Belle Moore who have all willingly given their many services.

And to all the whirligig staff members we would like to give a hearty cheer for their efficiency and patience while we were "blowing off steam." To each of you and to the students and faculty of Greensboro Senior High School we sincerely say, "Thank you."
